

Canadian Blood Services Lifetime Achievement Award Criteria

Background

Recipients of the Canadian Blood Services Lifetime Achievement Award are individuals whose contributions to the Canadian blood system are recognized as both extraordinary and world class. These recipients have made landmark contributions to the field of transfusion medicine in Canada and/or abroad.

To be nominated for the Canadian Blood Services Lifetime Achievement Award, an individual must have contributed significantly to improving the safety and/or quality of blood, blood products and/or bone marrow or has made noteworthy improvements or advances in transfusion medicine practice. Their record of publication should be of significance and their professional reputation should be aligned with the goals and reputation of Canadian Blood Services, reflecting a Quality culture driven by excellence.

Process

Nominations are to be submitted in writing to:

CBS Lifetime Achievement Award Nominating Committee
c/o Ian Mumford, Chief Operating Officer
Canadian Blood Services
1800 Alta Vista Drive
Ottawa, Ontario K1G 4J5
Ian.mumford@blood.ca

Deadline: May 31, 2011

Nomination Requirements

- Provide a short introduction and summary in 150 words or less of the nominee's contribution to improving the safety and/or quality of blood, blood products or bone marrow, or contribution to advances in transfusion medicine practice.
- Present a brief biography including academic, research, clinical and administrative positions, awards or recognitions.
- Outline how the work of the nominee is set apart from the work of others in the field.
- Provide a nominee's full current curriculum vitae, and contact information for the nominee including full name, mailing address, telephone number(s) and email address.
- Provide name and contact information for the nominator(s)

Candidates should be unaware that they have been nominated for this award.

The Canadian Blood Services Lifetime Achievement Award came into existence in 2002. To date, the Canadian Blood Services Board of Directors has selected the following individuals for this prestigious award:

- ◆ Dr. John Bowman, 2002
- ◆ Ms. Marie Cutbush Crookston, 2002
- ◆ Dr. Morris A. Blajchman, 2003
- ◆ Dr. Peter Pinkerton, 2004
- ◆ Dr. John Freedman, 2006
- ◆ Dr. Hans Messner, 2007
- ◆ Justice Horace Krever, 2008
- ◆ Dr. Gail Rock, 2009
- ◆ Dr. Victor Blanchette, 2010